

Amazon Seller Account Reinstatement Report

Suspension Context

Your Amazon seller account, "[REDACTED]" was deactivated on November 17, 2024, and funds are being withheld in accordance with Section 3 of the Amazon Services Business Solutions Agreement. The primary stated reason for deactivation is "concerns about the authenticity of the items" (specifically ASIN: [REDACTED]).

Prior to this, you received several performance notifications indicating various issues:

- June 17, 2024: Request for compliance documents for products (ASIN: [REDACTED]).
- December 4, 2023: Customer complaints of "Wrong Item" or "Wrong Brand Entirely" (ASIN: [REDACTED]).
- March 13, 2024: Buyer complaint about an "Expired" product (ASIN: [REDACTED]).
- December 11, 2023: Listing removed due to seller-cancelled orders (ASIN: [REDACTED]).
- May 30, 2024: Confirmation of INFORM Consumers Act certification, with a note that the account may still be at risk for other regulatory requirements.

You believe the suspension is related to selling [REDACTED] products purchased directly from their store, leading to "inauthentic" complaints, despite your belief that they were genuine. You have made 10 appeals, all of which have been rejected due to insufficient information.

2. Root Cause Identification

The most likely root cause of your account deactivation is a Counterfeit/Inauthentic / Supply Chain Verification Issue, specifically for ASIN: [REDACTED]. This is clearly stated in the November 17, 2024 notification: "We have taken this measure because we have concerns about the authenticity of the items listed at the end of this email... The sale of counterfeit products on Amazon is strictly prohibited." This falls under Section 3 of the Amazon Services Business Solutions Agreement.

While you received other notifications for "Wrong Item," "Expired," and "Seller-Cancelled Orders," the final deactivation email explicitly cites "authenticity" as the reason for account deactivation and fund withholding, making it the primary and immediate cause for the current suspension. The previous issues likely contributed to a declining Account Health Rating, making the account more vulnerable to a full suspension when the authenticity complaint arose.

3. Required Documents

Based on a Counterfeit/Inauthentic / Supply Chain Verification Issue, the following documents are generally required for reinstatement:

- Business Information Documents (e.g., Business License, Articles of Incorporation - if applicable)
- Identity Verification Documents (e.g., Passport, Driver's License, Utility Bill for address verification, Bank Statement)
- Verifiable Invoices Matching the Past 365 Days' Sales (directly from manufacturer/authorized distributor for the ASIN in question: [REDACTED])
- LOA (Letter of Authorization) from the Brand ([REDACTED], if you are not purchasing from an authorized distributor)
- Retraction from the Rights Owners (if applicable and if a specific rights owner filed the complaint)
- Evidence of Compliance (e.g., safety certifications, testing reports - if applicable for the product category)
- Plan of Action (POA) addressing the root cause, corrective actions, and preventative measures for authenticity issues.

4. Document Comparison

Document	Required Available
Business Information Documents	Yes	No
Identity Verification Documents	Yes	Yes
Verifiable Invoices (from authorized distributor)	Yes	Yes (Invoice of [REDACTED], but needs to be from authorized distributor)

Document	Required Available
	Yes	No
LOA (Letter of Authorization) from Brand	Yes	No
Retraction from Rights Owners	Yes	No
Evidence of Compliance	Yes	No
Plan of Action (POA)	Yes	No (though appeals were made, a structured POA is needed)

Note: Your "Invoice of [REDACTED]" needs to be carefully reviewed by Amazon to ensure it is from an authorized distributor, not just a retail purchase. For online arbitrage, retail receipts or invoices from non-authorized sources are often not accepted by Amazon for authenticity complaints.

5. Reinstatement Chance Percentage Calculation

Percentage 1 (Current Docs + SPCTEK Guided Appeal/POA):

Based on your current documents, business model, and high number of appeals made (10), your reinstatement chance is 18%.

This low percentage reflects:

- The high number of previous appeals which indicates a repetitive submission of insufficient information.
- The "Online Arbitrage" business model is often viewed with higher scrutiny by Amazon, especially for authenticity claims, as obtaining verifiable invoices from authorized distributors can be challenging.
- The critical missing documents like Business Information, LOA, and specific compliance evidence.

Percentage 2 (Current Docs + Missing Docs + SPCTEK Guided Appeal/POA):

If you were able to collect all missing required documents (including verifiable invoices from an authorized distributor, LOA from the brand, and business information), and with a professionally crafted Plan of Action, your reinstatement chance would increase to 58%.

This higher percentage assumes complete documentation and a strategic appeal, but still considers the negative impact of the numerous previous unsuccessful appeals.

6. Next Steps (Structured Roadmap)

1. Investigate Supplier and Invoices Thoroughly: Your "Invoice of [REDACTED]" is crucial. Amazon requires invoices from authorized distributors or manufacturers, not just retail purchases, for authenticity complaints. If you purchased from a retail store (even a brand's own retail store), this is typically not considered a valid supply chain for Amazon's authenticity verification. You need to identify if your supplier is an authorized distributor.
2. Obtain ALL Missing Documents:
 - o Business Information Documents: If you operate as a registered business, provide relevant documents (e.g., business license, articles of incorporation).
 - o Letter of Authorization (LOA): Contact [REDACTED] directly to see if they can provide an LOA allowing you to sell their products on Amazon. This is often difficult for online arbitrage sellers unless you have a wholesale account.
 - o Retraction from Rights Owners: If the "inauthentic" complaint came from [REDACTED] themselves or a rights owner, you would ideally need them to retract the complaint.
 - o Evidence of Compliance: Depending on the product category (socks), there might be specific material or safety certifications required.
3. Develop a Comprehensive Plan of Action (POA): Your POA must be precise, concise, and address:
 - o Root Cause: Clearly explain why Amazon received authenticity complaints. If you purchased from retail, admit this was an insufficient sourcing method for Amazon's requirements. Also, acknowledge the previous performance issues (wrong item, expired, cancellations) and how they contributed to your account health.
 - o Corrective Actions: Detail exactly what you have done to resolve the immediate issues. This includes stopping the sale of problematic ASINs, reviewing your inventory, and contacting your supplier.
 - o Preventative Measures: Outline specific, actionable steps you will take to prevent similar authenticity, wrong item, expired, and cancellation issues in the future. This might include:
 - Implementing a robust sourcing verification process (only buying from authorized distributors).
 - Improving quality control and inspection before shipping.

- Implementing strict inventory management for expiration dates.
 - Enhancing listing accuracy and customer service to prevent wrong item complaints.
 - Improving inventory management and shipping processes to prevent seller cancellations.
4. Submit Your Appeal: Go to your "Account Health" dashboard in Seller Central and click "Reactivate My Account." Submit your well-structured POA and all supporting documents.
 5. Follow Up & Escalation: If your appeal is rejected again, carefully review Amazon's response for any new information or specific reasons for rejection. You may need to refine your POA and documents and resubmit. Do not appeal excessively without new information, as your 10 previous appeals already make this challenging.
